PREFACE

The preparation of the fourth volume of this catalogue has proceeded under great difficulties. When about two-thirds of the material had been arranged, though not checked, practically the whole of the Library had to be removed into store owing to rebuilding operations, and for two years it was not possible to refer to the publications that are catalogued in this section. Where there has been any doubt as to the correctness of an entry it has been necessary, therefore, so far as possible, to consult other libraries : but there necessarily remained a large number of queries involving corrections that could only be made after direct access had been obtained to the books themselves. The checking of these entries had to remain in abeyance until the new library was occupied and this naturally involved a long delay.

The present volume cannot be considered to cover a defined geographical area as in the case of the preceding three, which dealt with Africa, Australasia, and North America and the West Indies respectively ; but it has one important aspect of uniformity. It covers what may be termed the sea-road to the East and includes the Mediterranean colonies, the Middle East, and India and Burma, as well as the Malay States, the East Indian Islands, and the Far East generally. It embodies one notable section—the Cyprus collection, presented by the late Claude Delaval Cobham, C.M.G., Commissioner of Larnaca, consisting of a very fine collection of books in many languages dealing with that important island. Many of these are of great rarity, and the whole represents the successful efforts of a bibliophile to gather together all the available literature relating to a specific portion of the British Empire.

Of the more important books in the Cyprus collection mention should be made of the following : the 1534 edition of the " Isolario " of Benedetto Bordone ; an edition of Noe's " Viaggio," published at Bassano about the year 1540 ; Van Ghestele's " Voyage," published at Ghent in 1572 ; Porcacchi's famous work on the Islands of the World, published at Venice in 1590 ; the first edition of George Sandys's " Relation of a Journey," 1615 ; Thevet's " Cosmographia Orientis," 1617 ; the Rouen edition of Paul Lucas's " Voyage," 1724 ; Martinengo's very scarce " Relazione di tutto il successo di Famagosta," 1572 ; Bizari's " Cyprium Bellum," 1573 ; Bishop Lusignano's " Description de toute l'Isle de Chypre," 1580 ; and his " Chorografia," printed at Bologna in 1573 ; Foglietta's " Istoria," 1598 ; Pietro della Valle's (Il Pellegrino's) " Viaggi," published at Rome in 1650-63 ; Archimandrite Cypriano's " ΙΣΤΟΡΙΑ ΧΡΟΝΟΛΟΓΙΚΗ," printed at Venice in 1788 ; Movers's " Das phönizische Alterthum," three vols., 1849-56 ; Du Cange's " Les familles d'Outre-Mer," 1869 ; Loredano's " Historie de re Lusignani," published at Bologna in 1647 ; and the French edition of 1732 ; the " Turkish History " of Richard Knowles, 1687 ; and a very interesting little book " Distinta Relazione d'un novo Mostro," describing a man with two heads, four arms, and four legs, published at Genoa in 1702.

There is in addition a large number of reprints of early travels to Cyprus and Jerusalem, published in many different countries ; and the collection is particularly rich in books on the history and archæology of the island. The latter subject, especially, is illustrated by numerous publications of much artistic merit which should be of great use in connection with the newly aroused interest in the classical and mediæval antiquities of Cyprus. The books and pamphlets by Palma di Cesnola, Ohnefalsch-Richter, Perrot, and Mas Latrie are specially noteworthy. The collection also includes the "Corpus Inscriptionum Semiticarum" of J. E. Renan, in ten volumes. There is a considerable section of religious works dealing with the Greek and Latin churches and including lives of Cypriot saints, and Offices or Service books. This section includes the first book printed in Cyprus, the "ΙΣΤΟΡΙΑ ΤΗΣ ΚΥΠΡΟΥ ΣΥΓΓΡΑΦΕΙΣΑ ΜΕΝ ΕΝ ΕΤΕΙ 1778," published at Larnaca in 1880. The first English book, a guide and directory, was not issued until 1885. An amusing section illustrating the devotion of modern Cypriots to poetical composition is that containing poems written on special occasions, such as marriages, festivities, and funerals, mostly composed in the Romaic. About a third of the books in the Cyprus collection are in Greek (Romaic), and others are in Greek (Hellenic), Latin, Turkish, Armenian, and numerous modern European languages.

The Indian section of the Library is neither as fine nor as extensive as the Canadian, Australasian, or African collections ; but it contains, nevertheless, a representative selection of works of great use to the general enquirer and student, especially those published in the post-war period. The arrangement of these books in the present catalogue reveals how varied and extensive are their contents and makes easily available for use much material that would otherwise remain of little practical utility. There are few rarities among the Indian books, but it is hoped that the production of this catalogue will encourage collectors of Indiana to remember the special needs of the Library in that respect.

This section, however, contains a very good selection of books and pamphlets on modern political questions, while the Indian law reports and general official publications form extensive collections and include many publications not easily accessible elsewhere.

The official literature relating to Ceylon is fairly complete from the year 1867, while that of the Malay Peninsula is also extensive. This section embodies many of the manuscripts of Colonel Henry Burney, describing early British intercourse with Burma, Siam, and the Malay States. Colonel Burney was Political Agent to the Siamese States, Envoy to Siam, and Resident at the Court of Ava. While many of his documents have been published by the Siamese Government, the majority of the papers in the Library of the Royal Empire Society remain unpublished. The literature relating to the Dutch East Indies contains some valuable sets of semi-official publications on the history and ethnography of the Dutch islands, including the "Dagh-Register" of the Bataviaasch Genootschap van Kunsten en Wetenschappen, the "Tijdschrift" issued by the same Society, and a set of the "Bijdragen" of the Koninklijk Instituut voor de Taal-, Land-, en Volkenkunde van Nederlandsche-Indië. In addition there are numerous interesting books of travel to the East Indies, such as those of Lancaster, Houtman, Van Spielbergen, Pyrard de Laval, the two Middletons, Saris, Acosta, Beaulieu, Nieuhoff, De Graff, Schouten, Baldaeus, and Mandelslo ; many of which have been republished by the Hakluyt and Linschoten Societies or are contained in the Collections of Harris, Churchill, Astley, Mavor, Renneville, Bernard, Bancarel, Prévost, Pinkerton, Kerr, Walckenaer, and other geographers.

As in other volumes of the catalogue a geographical index has been added to facilitate quick reference, while the author-index represents an endeavour to identify each author by means of dates and other information. In the case of Indian authors, many of whom bear the same name, it has not always been possible to identify each specific writer.

In arranging Indian names the practice has generally been followed of placing Mohammedan names under the penultimate word. This has also been done in the case of South Indian names and where the designations are in the nature of clan or occupational names. In other cases the final name has generally been adopted, but where there has been any doubt as to the correct entry the practice of the India Office List has been followed, although there seems to be as yet no regularised system of treatment even in official lists. No attempt has been made at transliteration : the form used by the author being that usually preferred. It has not always been possible to determine what is a title or honorific, and as the value and significance of names, especially those of Hindu origin, including personal names, caste names, family names, and many other kinds of patronymics, vary in different parts of India, it has been thought best to follow, so far as possible, the local practice whenever that can be determined.

In the alphabetisation of Indian names, combinations of words have been treated as one word. Thus Abdullah ibn Yusuf Ali is alphabetised as one name, as are such names as Sivaswamy Aiyar or Rama Chandra Rau. This practice has kept similar names together and tends to uniformity. It is useful as it follows the already established custom of certain authors who, on the title-pages of their books, frequently join words together into one name, i.e. Ramachandra, Abdulasis, Ramarao, Ranganathan. In the case of European names, however, the usual practice of taking the first of two names as the guiding word has been followed. Thus, Brown-Jones precedes Browne.

In order to avoid confusion, the same name when spelt differently, such as Aiyar, Aiyer, Ayyar, has been alphabetised under one form only, though the author's spelling has been retained ; except where the initial letter is different, as, for example, Iyer. Exceptions to this practice occur occasionally, as Rai, Rao, Rau, Row, Roy, each of which has been given separate entry. Contrary to the practice in other volumes of this catalogue the names of Indian authors have been given in full under the subject-headings wherever possible in order to distinguish those having the same initials from each other.

In the case of India and the Federated Malay States, it has not been thought advisable always to choose the most specific form of subject-heading but rather to group entries together under larger headings. Thus entries describing the agriculture, botany, forestry, geology, history, etc., of a province generally appear in the main section on agriculture, etc., under India, subdivided by the name of the province, and not in the sections devoted to the specific province. This has the great advantage of bringing all the material on a special subject into one section. In the case of the larger Native States, however, it has been deemed best generally to give most of these subjects separate treatment. This has also been the case with Burma, which has been arranged as a separate country. In all these cases, however, utility, and not uniformity, has been the first consideration ; as uniformity in such a matter, even if attainable, would only have necessitated innumerable cross-references, wasting both the time and the patience of the student.

The present volume completes the catalogue of the Library with the exception of the Biographical section and the section containing publications on the Great War. It is hoped to include these two sections in a smaller fifth volume which may also embody additions made to the Library since the previous volumes were published.

In presenting volume four of the catalogue the compiler wishes to acknowledge the continued and warm support of Sir John Cumming, K.C.I.E., C.S.I., and other members of the Catalogue Committee. Acknowledgments should also be made of the assistance of Mr. Douglas Varley, B.A., Deputy Librarian ; Mr. C. P. Jackson ; Mrs. Evans Lewin, who has undertaken much of the detailed work of preparation ; Miss Vera Ward ; Miss M. McDonagh, B.A. ; and Miss M. Maynard, upon whom has fallen the task of correctly typing the two thousand pages of manuscript.

Finally, grateful recognition is due to the Carnegie United Kingdom Trust and the Carnegie Corporation of New York, without whose financial aid the publishing of these four volumes would not have been possible.
